I. Background/ Purpose:

In accordance with the changes promulgated by Senate Bill 12 to Florida Statute 394 (Florida Mental Health Act, commonly referred to as the “Baker Act”), and Florida Statute 397 (commonly referred to as the Marchman Act), Hendry County in collaboration with Central Florida Behavioral Health Network (the Managing Entity) have completed this Behavioral Health Receiving System (BHRS) Plan. Implementation of this plan assures the coordinated provision of emergency services for people in need of help for behavioral health disorders and supports a comprehensive behavioral system of care.

This BHRS Plan describes how the community shall ensure the provision of the “No Wrong Door Model” defined in FS 394.4573. This description includes the organization of the BHRS and how it responds to individual needs and integrates services among various providers.

The Behavioral Health Receiving System may be organized in any manner which functions as a no-wrong-door model. Such models include, but are not limited to:

A central receiving system is identified as a system that consists of a designated central receiving facility that serves as a single entry point for persons with mental health or substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders. The central receiving facility shall be capable of assessment, evaluation, and triage or treatment or stabilization of persons with mental health or substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders.

A coordinated receiving system as a system that consists of multiple entry points that are linked by shared data systems, formal referral agreements, and cooperative arrangements for care coordination and case management. Each entry point shall be a designated receiving facility and shall, within existing resources, provide or arrange for necessary services following an initial assessment and evaluation.

A tiered receiving system consists of multiple entry points, some of which offer only specialized or limited services. Each service provider shall be classified according to its capabilities as either a designated receiving facility or another type of service provider, such as a triage center, a licensed detoxification facility, or an access center. All participating service providers shall, within existing resources, be linked by methods to share data, formal referral agreements, and cooperative arrangements for care coordination and case management.

OR

The BHRS may be organized in any manner that functions as a No-Wrong-Door Model that responds to individual needs and integrates the services of various providers.

The County and the Managing Entity shall review and update, as necessary, the Behavioral Health Receiving System at least once every 3 years. An accurate inventory of the participating service providers shall be maintained and made available at all times to all first responders in the service area.

II. Hendry County’s Behavioral Health Receiving System (BHRS)

Hendry County’s Behavioral Health Receiving System is best described as a tiered receiving system.

In an effort to resolve complaints, grievances, and disputes which may arise during implementation of the plan, personnel from Crossroads Behavioral Health Center and personnel from Jerome Golden Center and SalusCare will regularly meet. The Public Safety Coordinating Council will implement necessary actions in response to its ongoing review. The Public Safety Coordinating Council and Central Florida Behavioral Health Network (CFBHN) is responsible for providing oversight to the BHRS Plan. The Public Safety Coordinating Council have the authority to resolve issues concerning the BHRS Plan, approve interagency agreements, as well as coordinate other services needed for individuals beyond acute care services.

I. Background/ Purpose:

In accordance with the changes promulgated by Senate Bill 12 to Florida Statute 394 (Florida Mental Health Act, commonly referred to as the “Baker Act”), and Florida Statute 397 (commonly referred to as the Marchman Act), Glades County in collaboration with Central Florida Behavioral Health Network (the Managing Entity) have completed this Behavioral Health Receiving System (BHRS) Plan. Implementation of this plan assures the coordinated provision of emergency services for people in need of help for behavioral health disorders and supports a comprehensive behavioral system of care.

This BHRS Plan describes how the community shall ensure the provision of the “No Wrong Door Model” defined in FS 394.4573. This description includes the organization of the BHRS and how it responds to individual needs and integrates services among various providers.

The Behavioral Health Receiving System may be organized in any manner which functions as a no-wrong-door model. Such models include, but are not limited to:

A central receiving system is identified as a system that consists of a designated central receiving facility that serves as a single entry point for persons with mental health or substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders. The central receiving facility shall be capable of assessment, evaluation, and triage or treatment or stabilization of persons with mental health or substance use disorders, or co-occurring disorders.

A coordinated receiving system as a system that consists of multiple entry points that are linked by shared data systems, formal referral agreements, and cooperative arrangements for care coordination and case management. Each entry point shall be a designated receiving facility and shall, within existing resources, provide or arrange for necessary services following an initial assessment and evaluation.

A tiered receiving system consists of multiple entry points, some of which offer only specialized or limited services. Each service provider shall be classified according to its capabilities as either a designated receiving facility or another type of service provider, such as a triage center, a licensed detoxification facility, or an access center. All participating service providers shall, within existing resources, be linked by methods to share data, formal referral agreements, and cooperative arrangements for care coordination and case management.

The BHRS may be organized in any manner that functions as a No-Wrong-Door Model that responds to individual needs and integrates the services of various providers.

The County and the Managing Entity shall review and update, as necessary, the Behavioral Health Receiving System at least once every 3 years. An accurate inventory of the participating service providers shall be maintained and made available at all times to all first responders in the service area.

II. Glades County’s Behavioral Health Receiving System (BHRS)

Glades County’s Behavioral Health Receiving System is best described as a tiered receiving system.

The Glades Ad Hoc Committee is to discuss the operations of the Glades County BHRS Plan. The committee will meet at least 2 times per year to discuss grievances, public satisfaction, and assurance of patient rights as related to this plan. The Committee is to be composed of, but not limited to, representatives of the following agencies: Department of Children and Families, Glades County Community/Neighborhood Services Department, Central Florida Behavioral Health Network, Jermone Golden Center, Crossroads, Glades County Sheriff Office, Glades County Schools, Department of Health of Glades County, NAMI, Department of Corrections, EMS, etc.
